RECEIVED

As a 39-year resident of Pima Country, I love the open spaces of land and sky that constitute the beauty of Southern Arizona. I am horrified and grieved that you are considering raising a power line across my beloved landscape.

Those of us who truly love Arizona are appalled that others are willing, even eager, to destroy the very essence of our region. Once power lines go in, they will lead to more development of our few remaining natural areas. And once those areas are developed, we can never go back to the pristine views we now cherish. (Pardon the metaphor, but it's a bit like a virgin: once she has been taken, she can never be returned to her purity.)

Please help to maintain the Arizona that so many of us treasure. Please do not let narrow business interests ruin the best we have for a profit. Surely we cannot improve on what nature has given us in our gorgeous state -- certainly not by a power line and poles to support it.

I ask each of you to oppose the permanent blight this would put on our land.

Most sincerely,

Mary Lonsdale Baker
